What we know

As we age, very few of us consider the risk of falls

We don't know how to reduce our risk of falling and we don't do anything about it.

We avoid talking about falls, out of embarrassment and a fear of losing independence.

People respond well when talking about falls prevention as part of a healthy, happy ageing lifestyle.

An active lifestyle helps maintain independence and improves quality of life as we get older.

The more active we are, the stronger and safer we feel.

What can you do

Why this is important

The Live Stronger For Longer campaign addresses the impact of falls amongst older adults, raises awareness of falls prevention and promotes a healthy, happy ageing lifestyle.

Falls are one of the largest causes of emergency hospital admission for older adults

It's estimated that in Derbyshire, around 70,100 people aged over 65 fall every year.

Resulting in approximately 11,000 ambulance call outs and 6,000 hospital admissions.

Falls can lead to pain and distress, injury, loss of confidence and even death.

Falls also increase dependence on social care and an increase in long-term admissions to residential care homes.

Target Audiences

Everyone can benefit from having a greater awareness about falls prevention and a healthy, happy ageing lifestyle. However, our local insight found that there are some groups who need special attention.

-  1. The ‘younger old’
– Non-fallers aged 55 to 65

-  2. ‘Coping Fallers’
– Aged 60-70

-  3. The ‘older old’
– Aged over 70

Target Audiences

1. The 'younger old' – Non-fallers aged 55 to 65

Those who haven't had a fall but are open to small lifestyle changes in order to prevent one.

Key Message:

Increase healthy ageing activities and connect with services like Live Life Better Derbyshire.

Target Audiences

2. 'Coping Fallers' – Aged 60-70

Those who have had a fall and 'cope' by withdrawing, such as avoiding poor weather. They haven't got in touch with services to help.

Key Message:

Increase falls prevention activities and connect with services like Age UK Derby and Derbyshire's 'Strictly No Falling'.

Target Audiences

3. The 'older old' – Aged over 70

Those who have fallen several times but think 'it's too late' to do anything about it.

They considered falling a normal and inevitable part of ageing.

Key Message:

We would like this group to speak to their GP or nurse.

What we need to say

Everyone can benefit from living a healthy, happy ageing lifestyle. If you've had a fall, tell your GP. Talk about it with friends and family. You can reduce your risk of falling again.

Do gentle exercises to improve your balance and co-ordination.

A brisk walk and gentle fitness classes, like tai-chi or dancing will help. Other activities that improve balance include, pilates, yoga and bowling.

Have regular check-ups on eyes and medicines.

Remove all trip hazards and wear sturdy footwear with good grips.
